Fog of the Post-Election (Council & Commentary)

At the outset, I ask that you read my article titled Who Has Stood in the Council of the Lord? Some of the points made therein will help you to follow what I have to say in this commentary, especially regarding the word council. I often write that on a specific date (often with the time) I heard, followed by what I believe came to me from the Lord. With this commentary, I'm introducing an alternate way of expressing this (i.e., I heard) by simply using the expression (or something similar) according to the council of the Lord, without including the date or time. Just so you know: I'll be using both expressions, but they convey the same meaning. Again, please read the article.

Standing in the council of the Lord is mighty important to all who profess to speak for the Lord. Without His council, we have no right to speak for Him. When we know what we have to convey to others is from the Lord, we must do so. Before proceeding to the heart of this insight, I offer a living example of something that came from His council. In 2016, I was told that a mighty storm was brewing that would sweep across the globe leading to death and destruction. Obviously, I wasn't given any details of the nature of this storm, but who can deny that less than four years later, the entire world is passing through this mighty storm called a global pandemic? Untold death and destruction (e.g., of jobs, businesses) have occurred, not just from a virus but also from the draconian and irresponsible actions of governments, public health bureaucrats, global corporations, and diabolically evil colluders around the world. As some have been saying, the cure for this virus should not be worse than the virus itself, and yet this is what has happened. Much could be said about this pandemic, but that is not the subject of this insight. Moving on.

Frankly, I wanted to write this post-election commentary some weeks back but have hit walls each time I've tried. Part of the reason is because, back on May 7, 2020, I asked the Lord who would win the election. In my experience, when I ask the Lord a question about important matters, I often receive a direct answer. The response came quickly: Trump will win. As of this writing, it seems quite clear that there is enough election and voter fraud to indicate Biden did not win and Trump did. However, there was another part to the answer that was hidden in what could best be described as a fog bank. I knew there was more to the answer, but I couldn't see through the wall of fog. Instead, it was as if, within the fog, there was a question, not an answer: Will Trump be inaugurated?

Consequently, the spirit of the Lord indicated that the post-election results would be like a fog wherein it would be hard to see through all that is going on and where it is all heading. This fog has not lifted, which is the reason so many are left wondering what's going to happen. Lord willing, more on this next year.

Regardless of the election outcome, there is a clear message from the Lord. Looking back to 2008-2009, I had no idea how God was going to fulfill two words that I was given, but it is clear we are witnessing their manifestation twelve years later. These words came to me with the rise of Barack Obama who governed from an amoral base that drove corruption deeper into the core of our nation. We could say that the infiltration of corruption, along with its failed ideologies, became complete. However, with the rise of Donald J. Trump in 2015 and his election a year later, God put this corruption on notice that it would not stand. As a reminder, this began the last seven years of the 21-Year Cycle I have proposed.

Based on the council of the Lord, one thing that is crystal clear is that Donald Trump has been part of God's tool kit that He is drawing from to hammer and pound the fortresses of America that are corrupt and have placed all of us in bondage to their corruption. The political system of the USA is likened to filthy CORDS OF FALSEHOOD that have been attached to the American people. By the way, these cords go back decades. Again, notice how this word on falsehood came in 2008 during a presidential-election cycle. In this regard, God raised up Trump to bring the corruption, which runs very deep, out into the open, out into the light of day for all to see – that is, for all who are willing to see. The message of the hammer and the cords is of great significance to where we are today. Now, we are approaching the end of a seven-year period, and the number 7 signifies divine (spiritual) perfection or completion.

On September 15, 2018, I heard: Trump is a sign of the corruption and the unreasoned nature of the systems that run America. A sign doesn't mean he is the corruption. Does anyone have any doubt that the word unreasoned applies today? Just in case you doubt it, here is the definition of unreason: inability or unwillingness to think or act rationally, reasonably, or sensibly; irrational. Also, take note that it is not just the political system but the entirety of the institutional systems that run America today that are deeply embedded with corruption. There are far too many institutions involved in this corruption to list, but most notably are the three branches of government. As an example, in the US, we are brought up thinking our justice system is above the fray of corruption, but it is not. Just consider how the courts, all the way to the Supreme Court, have thrown out lawsuits claiming election fraud – without ever hearing the evidence.

To be clear: The primary purpose of Donald Trump leading this nation for the last four years has been to expose the darkness that has overtaken this nation and the world. Rather than seeing Trump as if he is the savior of the republic; it is best to see him as an instrument of Almighty God, raised up to expose all the corruption that is now under the judgment of God. We could say that President Trump was the match that lit the flame. To this end, he has served God's purpose well. Only an outsider like him could have drawn the wicked out into the light to expose their darkness and the depth of corruption that has infiltrated every American institution that controls or influences our lives. Now, it is clear that this is part of God's plan to ambush the lies with truth, and the post-election fog is part of this plan, as well.

Here is the good news – the Lord has judged this darkness and its fate is sealed as the Lord Himself has entered into this last battle for humanity. On May 11, 2014, I heard: War is coming and Jesus is in this war. Mind you, this was over six years ago. As I have pointed out more than once, there are many types of wars and we are in one now. Recently, a key figure said we are in an information war with China. However, I still believe there is going to be some armed conflict eventually, sooner, if not later. Just as I was told tyranny is coming (and it did), so have I been told martial law is coming. In whatever way this war continues (with its twists, turns, and surprises), we can be assured that our Victor is in it. Regardless of how unsettling the days ahead might be, we are to be a people of great hope, knowing that our God reigns and His Son, our Lord Jesus, the King of all kings, has won the ultimate victory. Darkness will be defeated, not by a nature-animated man of flesh but by the Man in glory who is a life-giving spirit.

Until the fog lifts, the outcome of the election remains cloudy. But keep in mind – much more than this election is at stake. Where I disagree most with the many prophets out there is that too much emphasis is placed on the man Donald Trump and his ability and far less, if any, emphasis on the Man who is central and supreme in God's plan to achieve His ultimate purpose and who has all authority and power in heaven and on earth. The kingdom of our Lord and of His Christ ushers in the golden age for all humanity. King Jesus alone sets us free from all forms of bondage! The good news is that we are on the final trajectory to the coming of the earth's King and His kingdom.
