50-MPH Wind & Elevation (Dream)

During the night of March 5, 2014, I dreamed:

We were in a house on stilts in the middle of a wide river. The house was at least as high as the tops of the trees along the banks. I sensed it was 50 feet up. We could see up and down the river. We slept there, at least for this night. As I looked out over the river, I heard announced: “The wind is 50 mph.” I looked at the water below and wondered how it could be so great a wind; after all, the water didn't froth or look violent. But then, I noticed that the water going downstream was moving very fast as it was driven by the wind. The water was violent and very dark. I became concerned because for us to reach land (our destination), we had to go upstream, which meant we would be bucking a 50-mph headwind and a strong, violent downstream current.

Then, I looked upstream and saw a path in the water (not too wide) and an animal, like a big black Labrador retriever, swimming in it toward us. The path was calm and was white in color. We were stationed above the violent waters below.

Good news: there was a calm path for us to follow that went against the force of the violent water.

The number 50 signifies the holy spirit, jubilee, and pentecost. In the dream, it most likely means two things.

First, the holy spirit comes to convict the world concerning sin and righteousness and judgment (John 16:8), as typified by the darkness of the violent water and the fact that there was a 50-mph wind.

Second, being elevated 50 feet above the turbulence driven by the holy spirit, signifies one standing in the Lord by His spirit. In a play on words, the elevation itself could be described as a stand, even a watchtower for the Lord's people who look out over the world, discerning the times by God's spirit. In other words, they have vision of the times and know God's ultimate purpose and plan to achieve it.

This glorious vision signifies leading them to the calm waters of purity and holiness – the only sure way through turbulent times. The calm waters signify the spirit of the Lord and the land (destiny) signify King Jesus Himself – He is our safe harbor.

White implies purity, holiness, righteousness, and triumph. This too goes along with the holy spirit – more specifically to Jesus and His conquerors.

After these things I perceived, and lo! a vast throng which no one was able to number, out of every nation and out of the tribes and peoples and languages, standing before the throne and before the Lambkin, clothed in white robes and with palm fronds in their hands. (Revelation 7:9 CLV)

I perceived heaven open, and lo! a white horse. And He Who is sitting on it is called “Faithful and

True, and in righteousness is He judging and battling. “Now His eyes are a flame of fire, and on His head are many diadems, having names written of which no one except Himself is aware, and He is clothed in a cloak dipped in blood, and His name is called “The Word of God.” And the armies in heaven, dressed in cambric, white and clean, followed Him on white horses.” (Revelation 19:11-14 CLV)

O, people of God, as the turbulent waters of great upheaval, even death and destruction, come upon the earth, know that there is a clear, calm path through these turbulent times available to us through the spirit of the Lord that moves, not to only judge, but also to save.

Our Lord Jesus is Faithful and True, and His word stands, for He stands as the Word. We are to stand in the Lord and the strength of His might in the closing days of this age.

Look for the still, calm waters beyond the gale of judgment; stand in the midst of the gale; do not be moved; do not be swept downstream with the ungodly. Look to the Lord and by His spirit we will discover His clear, victorious path through the days ahead that will lead us into His glory with spirit-animated bodies – our new land in the image of the Pattern Son. The anointing within us – the spirit of truth – will lead us through the gale to the glory of God.

Our Lord is standing. This is good news!

King Jesus is coming!

PS

What about the black dog? I’m not sure of its significance other than for contrast, to show that there was an upstream path. The dog was black to contrast the purity or whiteness of the water. It could also mean that there is to be no darkness in the stream of God’s spirit. You decide.

On a personal level, there is probably a reason the dog was a black lab. Growing up, we had a black lab named Rascal who was the smartest animal I have ever known. Rascal was a wonderful companion to our entire family and we loved him very much. So, seeing a black lab in a calm stream was a good thing to me. I believe this was a personal assurance from the Lord that all is well, even in the midst of the gale. In some fanciful way, I could see the black lab as a symbol of the Lord Jesus coming to lead us into the calm waters. Obviously, in this case, black is not seen as something evil.
